EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

The Spotify board unanimously decided against acquiring a podcast analytics company, primarily due to concerns over financial overvaluation, integration challenges, and stiff competition from established players. The CFO, Legal Counsel, and Devil's Advocate voted for a NO-GO, counteracting the CMO's positive outlook for market growth.

BOARD VOTE

- CFO: NO-GO
- CMO: GO
- Legal Counsel: NO-GO
- Devil's Advocate: NO-GO
- Overall: 1 for GO, 3 for NO-GO, 0 for CONDITIONAL

CONSENSUS POINTS

- There is a significant demand for sophisticated analytics among podcast creators.
- The podcasting market is projected to grow substantially in the coming years.

- Concerns exist regarding the financial strain of an acquisition without guaranteed returns.

KEY DISAGREEMENTS

- The CFO, Legal Counsel, and Devil's Advocate highlighted financial overvaluation, integration risks, and competition as critical issues.
- The CMO focused on the growth potential within the podcast market and the need for improved analytics offerings as justification for pursuing the acquisition.

RISK MATRIX

Risk	Severity	Probability	Flagged By
Financial overvaluation	HIGH	MEDIUM	CFO
Integration challenges	HIGH	HIGH	Legal Counsel
Market competition	MEDIUM	HIGH	Devil's Advocate

OPTIONS & TRADE-OFFS

- Option A: Acquire a podcast analytics company -> Pros: Potential to rapidly enhance service offerings and attract new creators; aligns with growth market. | Cons: High financial risk, potential overvaluation, and integration challenges.
- Option B: Invest in internal analytics development -> Pros: Controlled costs, less integration risk, aligns with current capabilities. | Cons: Slower to meet market demands and may not fully leverage current growth opportunities.
- Option C: Explore partnerships with existing analytics firms -> Pros: Access to sophisticated analytics without full acquisition risks; possibility for shared resources. | Cons: Reduced control over analytics development and potential misalignment of goals.

RECOMMENDED NEXT STEPS

1. Conduct a thorough market analysis to gauge the actual needs of podcast creators regarding analytics.
2. Evaluate the feasibility of internal development of analytics tools to meet the identified demands.
3. Monitor the competitive landscape for potential partnership opportunities with established analytics providers to enhance Spotify's offerings without acquisition risks.
